"All NOMURA" to fulfill the client's demand for "All Japanese Style"

The owner wanted the project to have "exactly the same business process as in Japan" and deliver "the same quality of finish as in Japan". Therefore, NOMURA's senior design director was directly tasked with carrying out the project design. For a high degree of trust and close collaboration with the client, the director came to Shanghai from Japan once every two weeks to have ample discussions with the client.

Cross the ocean to build up the same perfect service system as in Japan.

Faithfully restoring the client' s "Vertical Garden City" construction concept

Reproducing natural environments full of greenery inside the public spaces of a super high-rise building is the development concept that this client has always strived for. We creatively designed the space on the basis of implementing the client' s concept, and we faithfully implemented and presented the design vision. By introducing large green plants throughout the iconic staircase space, we made the entire space appear like a crisscrossing floral patchwork. In the underground spaces, we also artificially created a natural light atmosphere. Our landscaping techniques combined virtuality and reality, contrasting and complementing the green plants. The result was that even while indoors, you could feel as relaxed and comfortable as if you were in nature.
